The chimney shall be completely removed both in the loft and above the roof. The roof shall be made good as necessary

This image shows an architectural floor plan of a house. The plan includes a central rectangular room, a kitchen area with a stove and sink, and a bathroom. A chimney is located in the central room. A red line, representing a roof modification, extends from the chimney area through the roof, creating a triangular opening. A note on the right side of the drawing specifies: "The chimney shall be completely removed both in the loft and above the roof. The roof shall be made good as necessary".

A vertical scale bar for a 1:50 map. It features a top section with diagonal hatching and a bottom section with horizontal hatching. The scale is marked in meters: 1m, 2m, 5m, and 10m. The 1m mark is at the top of the hatched section. The 2m mark is at the top of the bottom section. The 5m mark is at the bottom of the hatched section. The 10m mark is at the bottom of the bottom section.
