Planning condition 5 Response

21.05.20

In regards to drainage for the garden (mentioned in condition 5), our general intent is to use permeable surfacing throughout for new hard landscape works. This will avoid having to install new gullies or channels. We will also be taking care to ensure the ground is not too heavily compacted during the works, certainly within tree root protection areas. The small amount of runoff from time to time from the footpaths will also be welcomed by the plants nearby.
